American Red Cross To Aid Japan

HORROR OF QUAKE IS CONTINUING TO GROW WEDNESDAY

Estimates Of Deaths Vary Greatly In Press Reports

LARGE CRACKS ARE OPENED

Roads Blocked While Tidal Wave Also Costs Heavily

WASHINGTON, Mar. 9.—(AP)—President Coolidge asked the American Red Cross today to offer aid to Japan in its latest earthquake disaster.

TOKIO, Mar. 9.—(AP)—The home office announced this afternoon that, according to latest advices, 2,275 persons were killed in Monday's earthquake in central Japan and 3,441 were injured. Houses numbering 3,696 were destroyed by fire, 3,100 by the quake and 16,657 damaged by the shock.

All Japan was organizing to send aid to the disaster area. Army and navy expenditures are on the way with food, clothing and medicines and other relief parties are being rushed from several Japanese cities.

Some idea of the sufferings of refugees in Tokyo is had from stories how hundreds of them were compelled to seek shelter in the lee of snowdrifts, sleeping on mats spread on the snow. All of them were hungry and scantily clad. One investigator reported that bodies were strewn about everywhere—in the streets of towns and the open fields—and that hundreds of injured persons were pleading for medical attention.

TOKIO, Japan, March 9.—(AP)—The horror of Monday's earthquake catastrophe in central Japan continues to grow as more complete reports arrive.

The death list now ranges from an official estimate of 1,699 to newspaper figures as high as 5,000. The number of injured will run into the thousands.

The home minister gave the official figure of 1,600 deaths.

A local Japanese newspaper estimates the deaths at more than 3,000, while another vernacular paper estimated the homeless at between fifty and seventy-five thousand.

Numerous cracks were opened in the earth throughout the affected district. Roads were blocked by landslides and avalanches.

It is reported that a tidal wave, which followed the earthquake, severely damaged fishing villages along the coast.

GAS PRICE DROPS

Reductions of one cent per gallon on gasoline have been announced by some of the distributing companies for the entire state of Alabama.

$157.65 Amount Of Cash For 2 Days On Mart.

$157.65—is the amount of sales on the Decatur curb market in two days sellings, or an average of a little more than $6 per seller, 26 having sold on the mart. Twenty-seven permits have been purchased by Morgan growers thus far.

Speaking of the results, Miss Sallye Hamilton, home demonstration agent, declared today that the amount of cash transactions is above the average for this time of year.

The market, now an established enterprise, is running three days each week, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, from the hours of seven in the morning until the noon hour.

Endless 'Human Chain' Is Keeping Boy From Dying

CHICAGO, Mar. 9.—(AP)—An endless human chain held Albert Frick in the land of the living today, while doctors hovered over the 22-year-old youth, who was still alive although he had not drawn a normal breath for three days as a result of paralysis of the diaphragm.

Propped up in bed Frick was able to talk and physicians redoubled efforts to prevent a fatal instant's break in the rhythmic procession of men who have been inducing artificial respiration for the stricken youth since last Sunday morning.

Two by two they approach the bed, swayed back and forth for 15 minutes, one on each side, working feverishly in exact rhythm, pressing their hands down on the victim's lower chest, then relaxing them in an endless respiratory effort.

Twenty-four men have worked in an unbroken continuation of eight hour shifts, while others stood by to act as substitutes.

Without a break the process has gone on since Sunday morning, when creeping paralysis took effect in nerves controlling the movements of the youth's diaphragm.

Witnesses said they were witnessing one of the most remarkable achievements in medical history as 65 and 70 hours passed and the spark of life lingered. The patient has been unable to eat for many hours and has been given nourishment by a glucose solution injected into his paralyzed legs a quart at a time.

STOPS HIS AD

"No, you had better stop my ad," said Judge Thomas W. Wert when queried regarding a second publication of his advertisement in the want columns. "We are unable to supply the demands for chicks right now." The City View Poultry Farm has been using the classified columns of The Daily to increase sales.

It's the same old story, a few cents invested in the want columns and excellent returns almost immediately.

When you call Albany 1000, The Daily want department, you are talking to more than 4,000 families in Morgan county. Don't waste opportunity—call The Daily today over 1000, the carrier will collect.

BATTERED BODY OF CHILD IS FOUND

Palmer, Mass., March 9.—(AP)—Discovery of the battered body of a boy, apparently four years old, on the town dump here yesterday, was viewed today as possible solution of the three weeks old mystery surrounding the disappearance of four-year-old Billy Gaffney from his home in Brooklyn.

The unclothed body of the boy, wrapped in a sack, was concealed in a wine cask and its general description appears to coincide with that of the missing Gaffney boy.

An autopsy is to be performed today, in an effort to determine cause of the child's death.

DIAMOND STAR SLEEPS TODAY

Outfielder Thought To Have Worried Over His Health

SHREVEPORT, La., Mar. 9.—(AP) Although still in a grave condition, Johnny Mostil, star center-fielder for the Chicago White Sox, who attempted suicide late yesterday, was much improved today and physicians said he had a good chance to recover.

Suffering from slashes about the throat and body, administered by himself with a knife and a razor blade, Mostil slept peacefully this morning after a restless night. Friends of Mostil could assign no reason for his action, other than possible despondency over ill health.

He has made no statement concerning the attempt since regaining consciousness.

There was no practice on the field yesterday and Mostil, with the other players, remained in and about the hotel.

It is said that Pat Prunty, an ardent Chicago baseball fan, and close friend of Mostil, that Mostil had been feeling somewhat ill in the morning. Prunty had left Mostil's room about 4 o'clock and upon returning about 6:30 found the door locked. He obtained a pass key and upon entering found Mostil in the bath room.

Mostil was rushed to a hospital where physicians announced his condition as serious. The wounds consisted of two deep gashes in the left side of the neck just below the ear and a superficial cut on the left side of his body about the waist line.

Despondency over ill health is believed to have been responsible for Mostil's attempt at suicide. Yesterday morning he visited a local physician when an X-ray was made of his teeth. He had worried over his physical condition and it is believed it caused temporary insanity. He arrived in Shreveport from Chicago Sunday to start spring training but had not donned a uniform. Rain prevented his team from practicing.

Mostil's attempt to end his life took place in the room of Pat Prunty, a close friend and a Chicago baseball fan. Prunty at the time was visiting friends in another room in the hotel. When he returned to his room at 5:30 p. m., he found the door locked from the inside. By a pass key he managed to open the door. He was in the room for a couple of minutes before he went to the bath room, where he found Mostil lying in a pool of blood. The ball player was unconscious, and a pocket knife and razor blade were by his side. Examination showed that Mostil had attempted to sever the jugular vein in his neck with the razor blade. There were several deep gashes on both wrists.

COMMITTEE WILL CONFER AT 5:00

The central baseball committee and affiliated committees have been requested by President Charles Rountree to meet this afternoon at five o'clock in the directors room of the Central National bank. The attendance of all committeemen was urged as the meeting is regarded as very important.

T. A. Ramsey Laid To Rest Today

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at city cemetery chapel by Revs. Barnes and Penland for T. A. Ramsey, who died Tuesday morning at seven o'clock. The body was removed to Brown's parlors and prepared for burial.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Ramsey of Fourth avenue, south, and one son, Jas. Ramsey of Birmingham. For many years Mr. Ramsey was an employee of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company.

GIRL BANDIT GETS THIRTY DAYS FOR ATTACK ON BANK

Marion Meyers Told To Expiate Her Crime

JUDGE TRIES TO BE LENIENT

Jurist Convinced She Has Not Had A Fair Chance

VERMILION, S. D., Mar. 9.—(AP)—Marion Meyers, former coed at the University of South Dakota, was sentenced to 30 days in the state penitentiary, when she pleaded guilty today to an attempt to rob the vault, February 5, of the First National Bank here to get $24 to pay her tuition.

Third degree burglary was the specific charge against the girl, who was arrested after she attempted to gain entrance to the vault with an electric drill.

In sentencing the girl, Judge A. B. Beck declared that in his opinion she had not received "an even break" at the hands of society, and that he wished to give her a fair chance. The 30-day sentence, he thought, was the best way of aiding her to regain her proper station in society.

Miss Meyers first cut telephone and telegraph wires and then broke into the bank building, through a rear window. Frightened away by a watchman as she attempted to attack the vault with an electric drill, officers found her later in the rear of the bank, weeping bitterly.

SUPERINTENDENTS BACK FROM MEET

Several North Alabama school heads who attended the Dallas Convention of the National Department of Superintendence have returned to their various cities. The North Alabama delegations included: N. F. Greenhill, Albany school head; P. W. Williams, Huntsville; R. E. Thompson, Tusculum; L. E. Creel, Sheffield and H. J. Williamson, head of Florence Normal, Florence, Ala.

While attending the convention the Valley school chiefs had the opportunity of hearing Dan Moody, Texas governor, in an address.

JOHNSON TO HEAD COMMERCIAL CLUB

Alex Johnson, popular student of Albany Hi school, has been chosen to head the Commercial Club, a school unit organized on Tuesday at the home of Miss Frances McDermott. The following were elected to assist young Johnson: Edith Riddle, vice-president; Edith Childs, secretary; Margaret Poer, treasurer.

A program committee was appointed, including Louise and Margaret Mathews, Herschel McKelvey, Raphael Sartor, Lucille Petty, Ruth Stroup and Burton Davidson will serve as a social committee. Following perfection of an organization, the club enjoyed a musical program, Miss Virginia Phillips, a guest, delighting with several musical numbers.

ROADS GETTING IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Roads throughout North Alabama now are becoming almost impassable as result of continued rains. The situation is regarded as serious by many observers, who fear that a continuation of the downpours would result in alarming impairment of traffic throughout this section.

HEAD SENT HERE

Back Again

One week Margaret Cummings (above), twenty, and her fifteen-year-old sister told New York police such a hard luck story that a collection was taken up for them. The next week they were back, this time charged with the theft of $1,000 in clothing and jewelry from two rooming houses. They gave Philadelphia as their home.

DILLEHAY NAMED FUND TREASURER

Westminster Church Prepares For The Revival Meet

A. C. (Jack) Dillehay was appointed as treasurer of the building fund for Westminster Presbyterian church, Tuesday night when the official board of the church gathered at the church to discuss various church interests.

The official board also began formulating plans for the evangelistic series of services beginning March 27 when Gipsy Smith, Jr., will conduct a campaign at the local church.

The financial report of church condition was made by Thomas Redding, in the absence of R. C. Billings, treasurer. The report was received with unusual interest and declared satisfactory by the official board.

Building plans, which will provide for the construction of a Sunday school unit, will be made known to the public within a short while.

George E. Wintz Hailed In Court For "Exposure"

George E. Wintz, manager of the Music Box Revue, which production was staged at the Princess Theatre some months ago, has been hailed in court at Jackson, Miss., on charges of "causing the persons of 41 young girls to be 'lewdly exposed' in a local theatre," according to Associated Press dispatches from that city.

The dispatch states that warrants had also been issued for the arrest of the 41 girls and 16 men in connection with the production. The girls were charged with "exposing themselves in a public place" and the men were wanted on charges similar to those preferred against Wintz.

The show was booked for a second showing, but the district attorney said he would stop the show, by injunction if necessary.

BONANZA FOUND IN TRUE LAST CHANCE ATTEMPT BY BOYS

EXCITEMENT IS VERY HIGH

Prospectors Flocking Into Nevada Hills Seeking Metal

TONOPAH, Nev., Mar. 9.—(AP)—The gold rush at Weepah, Nevada, assumed all the elements of a western epic today when it was revealed that Frank Horton, Jr., and James Traynor, 19-year-old youths, who made the rich strike into their bonanza in true "last chance" fashion.

As they watched hundreds of experienced and tenderfoot prospectors continue development work on claims near their claim today, they told of eating the last of their food shortly before they stumbled into the pay dirt, assaying $75,000 a ton.

The day before the strike they placed themselves on a short ration basis when their food was virtually exhausted.

They decided to take a final chance on the claim on which Horton's father had scraped for years. Although it had been given up as worthless, they shoveled away sand and gravel and filled two sacks with what appeared to be rich ore. It assayed $75,000 a ton.

Many automobiles from neighboring states were in the Weepah neighborhood today. The gold hunters listened eagerly to the report of a United States mineral surveyor, who declared he stood five feet from the boy's mine and saw surface rock covered with gold.

Excitement here is only exceeded at Weepah, the tent city marking the location of the strike. Old prospectors stick to their burros or mules or pack animals, while the city pleasure seekers favor motorized packing facilities.

Although men and women camp followers, including professional gamblers, are here in force, they have failed to reap large profits as yet because the prospectors prefer to guard their claims.

A. H. Lawry, geologist for a Reno banker, visited the district today to make a second examination of the mineral formations.

Hundreds of telegrams have been received by Frank Horton, Sr., asking advice on coming here or offering to back him in developing the property.

He said one New York manufacturer offered him "all the money you want." The manufacturer paid a million dollars for Horton's Daisy mine in Goldfield, which proved worthless.

The two youths were grubbing for pay dirt.

At last the pestiferous mosquito has come into his own and makes his bow as a recognized benefactor of humanity.

The "skeeter" has played the part of a hypodermic syringe for some time. Many patients, suffering from diseases other than sclerosis, have been inoculated with malaria germs carried by specially infected mosquitoes. But this is the first time on record that the insect has been used for sclerosis.

For purposes of inoculation, the insects are placed in a box or other receptacle which is put on the patient's body. Doctors believe that in this way degeneration of the spinal cord tissues may be arrested.

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

"It's Christy's," Gay burst out to Stanley. She made me put it on to go shopping. Ashamed of my old coat, she was."

Gay Moore and Christine Noe, her cousin, are employed in the Wall Street House of Johnstone Baird, Gay as a typist and Christine as telephone operator. Christine is in love with Roger Pennington, called Penny by his intimates, and Gay is in love with Stanley Baird, Johnstone Baird's son. Gay incurs the enmity of Johnstone Baird by inadvertently opening the door of a private dining room in a roadhouse of doubtful reputation where he is dining with a woman known as the "Lilac Lady." Gay has gone there to rescue her cousin, Christine, who has gone there with Ivor Barclay in order to arouse Penny's jealousy. Stan's family disown him when he marries Gay, but they happily start housekeeping in a tiny flat, with Stan working as an automobile mechanic. Christine is discharged from her position for telling Penny Baird, Stan's sister, that Penny is not in the office. She jealously imagines that Penny is in love with Peggy. Leaving the office she meets Penny, who gives her the key to his apartment and tells her to wait there for him. She does so, and they plan happily to get married in the morning. Meanwhile Stan has had a proposition made to him by Mr. Brooks, the father of Mimi Brooks, whom Gay is sure is in love with Stanley. However, Stanley refuses the proposition to Gay's relief. Christine and Penny are married in City Hall and leave for a European honeymoon. Christine is wild with delight when Penny takes her to the shops in Paris.

GAY and Stan spend a happy summer in taking trips in an automobile which Stan has made from odds and ends. They call the car "Patches," and Gay forgets everything in her great happiness. She receives a note from Christine who is living in a fashionable apartment hotel, inviting Stan and her to spend the evening. Gay and Stan call on Christine and Penny. Gay senses that things are not quite as they should be between the couple, and before she leaves, Christine confides that she thought she would be happy but things are very different to what she had thought they should be. Mimi Brooks calls Stanley on the telephone. Gay is torn with misgivings as to whether or not Stanley is happy in his life with her. He tells Gay that Mimi Brooks brings her car to him frequently for repairing. Gay tells him that the next time Mimi comes with the car to invite her to dinner.

Mimi comes to dinner and tortments Gay with references to the old camping days with Stanley. Gay lets her cook the dinner, which is a miserable failure. After Mimi goes, Gay cooks an omelet for Stan.

Christine invites Gay to go shopping. When Gay arrives at the Hotel, Christine insists on giving her a dress. They shop and Christine buys lavishly with Gay protesting that Penny is not a Croesus. Christine takes her to tea at the Van Rex, and Ivor Barclay joins them.

CHAPTER 42

Gay was hot and uncomfortable—in a turmoil of anxiousness, sitting there with her cousin and Ivor Barclay.

Her uneasiness quickened as she saw Christine's fingers slip along his arm and she noted the man's half derisive air of possession. She guessed that their meeting this way was not an unusual thing. Her suspicion was confirmed when references were made to a dinner party they had attended on Long Island. Barclay smiled at her—black eyes, white, even teeth, red lips all flashing. Very tingly he looked, vital, disquieting, as he reached for his bill, set the waiter scraping with a handsome tip, herded them out through the lounge to his car, in a pleased, laughing way.

But Gay refused to go for a drive. She'd take the subway home, she said; had to hurry now—Stan would be there first if she didn't run; he'd be wanting his dinner.

"Drive you up, then—quicker than the subway—even safer—Barclay's smile was mocking.

She kept saying, "No—no, thank you," and got away while Christine was settling in the driver's seat.

Downcast and frightened, she asked herself if she ought to tell Stan; decided not. Only make him more impatient with her cousin. Besides he sometime might hint to Penny. Bad enough without that!

Stanley, as it happened, was already home; he was waiting with a fine show of impatience, his face turning all question when he saw the blue dress.

"It's Christy's," she burst out, flinging off the cape and beginning to tear at the fastenings of the collar. "She made me put it on to go shopping—ashamed of my old coat, she was—"

Then, seeing his look, she threw herself into his arms with a rush of tears. "I hate these things—I do! Wouldn't have gone if I'd able. During that time, I used all kinds of salves without receiving any real benefit. After taking six bottles of S. S. S., I was cured of this dreadful disease. I recommend S. S. S. to anyone suffering from eczema, because I cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me." Cleophas Forte, Soldiers and Sailors Home, Quincy, Ill.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

known. Now you think I mind the old coat—being shabby. Well, now I've hurt you, bringing her darn old finery here—"

He kissed away her tears, laughed with a jaunty note in his voice "You darling—ah, you darling! Game little kid, you. Send her darn old finery back, then, and buy some for yourself!"

"What I came home to tell you—the invention is finished! Getting a patent now. Going to be on the market pretty soon. Know what it means, Gay? New dresses—a maid—things I've wanted my girl to have. Glad?"

She was so glad she cried again and laughed at the same time, feeling all a-sparkle, light as foam.

"It isn't the dresses and things, Stan, darling. It's knowing how wonderful you are. Tell me some thing about it! I don't understand very well—"

It was a simple thing, he said—a device you hooked on carburetors to cut down the amount of gas used to run motors. Didn't sound like much, did it? But it would be a big thing in the automobile industry—chop expense of operating a car in half, maybe.

"But, Stan—that means a lot of people can have cars who couldn't afford them before, doesn't it? Why—don't you see what you and Steve Connors have done? Something big and shining for humanity! That's beautiful, that kind of service!"

He protested, laughing tenderly that she exaggerated—that it would take many other inventions to bring cars within everybody's reach. But she wouldn't have it so; she saw him now as a public benefactor and was correspondingly excited and proud.

They made a holiday feast of dinner and afterward he had to tell her the story all over again trying to explain the invention with blue-prints and his own drawings so she would understand.

So it was midnight before they thought of sleep. And still later when Gay slipped through the dark to answer the telephone.

Penny was calling to ask if she knew where Christine was. "Said she might see you this afternoon," he explained, voice worried and very tired. "Don't know why I should be so concerned—sort of restless, I guess. Going anywhere when you left her?"

"Well—" A picture of Christine flashed before her; Christine at the wheel of Barclay's car, swinging out into traffic; Barclay bending his face down, possessing her with his eyes.

"What did you say, Gay?" She pressed her lips against the mouth-piece so he wouldn't hear her teeth knock together. "She's all right. Probably met someone she knew. Penny—couldn't you run out for lunch some day—tomorrow? Something to talk over—"

"Certainly—delighted. See you tomorrow, then."

He hung up slowly, reluctant. It seemed to Gay, to lose the slight contact with her that saved him from being quite alone.

Southern Yellowstone Elk Receive Attention of Government Officials

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 9.

(AP)—The problem of preventing the starvation of the southern Yellowstone elk herd in bad winters has been discussed by authorities in Washington and out of it as come a plan of administration that considers all the conditions confronting the largest single herd of these big game animals in America.

The commission considering the problem was called together by the secretary of war, chairman of the President's national conference on outdoor recreation. Those in attendance were a unit in believing that the starvation of great numbers of elk in severe winters must top, and the work of the commission was directed to that end.

A comprehensive set of recommendations was adopted. These were prefaced by a statement that recognized the elk herd as a natural resource, combining economic and recreational values.

The history of the herd reveals that hard winters following a period of easy years, threaten extermination of the elk. The commission determined that the maximum number to be maintained should not exceed 20,000 and all members at the conference were agreed that the Federal government should acquire ranches and other private lands, which, if added to the areas of the existing federal refuge and the adjacent property of the Isaac Walton League, would provide feed to carry the elk through bad winters.

It was also recommended that an advisory board, made up of representatives of the State Game commission, the Forest service, the Biological Survey, the local stockmen's and Dude Rancher's association meet each year to review existing conditions and to recommend such steps as should be taken to promote the general program for the welfare of the elk.

Electric Chair Nearly Ready For Use Of Horace DeV Vaughn, Negro Killer

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 9.

(AP)—Alabama's electric chair, the first in the history of the state, is practically completed at Kilby state prison here and ready for the execution of Horace DeV Vaughn, negro, the first man to go to the chair in this state.

DeV Vaughn, who shot to death A. J. Moore and Mrs. Ruby Thornton January 19 as they sat in a parked automobile on a deserted road near Birmingham, is to go to the chair April 8.

Made the legal means of execution by an act of the 1923 legislature, the chair displaces hanging in Alabama by county authorities. Hereafter, the state will take charge of all prisoners condemned to death.

Edward Mason, an inmate of son.

Kilby prison, built and installed the chair in the death chamber of the main prison building. Mason, who is a carpenter, is serving a sentence of 12 to 60 years for grand larceny.

Every electrocution must take place before the hour of sunrise on the day set by the court. Under the law the following persons may witness imposition of the death sentence:

The executioner and such persons as may be necessary to assist him; the board of administration; two physicians; the spiritual advisor of the condemned; such newspaper representatives as may be admitted by the warden and five relatives or friends of the condemned person.

Dog Fanciers In The State See A Fine Array of Blooded Pooches At Show

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 9.

(AP)—More than 300 blue blood animes from all sections of the country went on exhibition here today at the opening of the 1927 how of the Birmingham Kennel club.

Shepherd dogs lead the list of entries with 54. Sporting dogs, bulldogs and terriers are not far behind, while the bird dog entry also is good. Most of these latter are entered by Alabama breeders.

Boston terriers are entered from Nashville, Memphis, Atlanta and the Middle West. Among them is Champion Patterson's Ted Buster, said by dog fanciers to be one of the best of his breed in the South.

Miss St. Louis, who has twice won the Birmingham show, also is one of the entries.

Toys, while not as numerous as last year, when a record was set for this class, have a heavy entry. The collie classes are well filled, including entries from kennels in Peoria, Ill.

Many beagles and Russian wolf-hounds have been entered, most of them by local and state breeders. Favorites in the show are the Great Dane entries. Several dogs in this class have been entered by well known breeders in Gastonia, N. C. and New Richmond, Ind.

Entries in all classes are said by officials in charge to be heavier than usual. Many noted dog fanciers and field trial men are in attendance.

NEW MUSSOLINI SOCIAL PLAN TO REMODEL ITALY

Turning Fascists Into Co-operative State Is Embodied

INCREASE FOR LABOR POWER

Premier Confirms Capitalism As A Proper Basis

By International News Service
MILAN.—A great social experiment is now being planned by Mussolini—that of turning Fascist Italy into Co-operative State, where all the problems of politics and economics will be finally solved.

The Co-operative State will consist of two great National confederations, one of employers and the other of employed and, at the head, the Ministry of Corporations presided over by the Minister, who, of course, will be Mussolini.

As a result of the scheme, Italy is promised national greatness and economic security.

Accepts Capitalism
The capitalist system is accepted and confirmed as the basic reality of a modern State. Those who own capital will continue to do so but will be as though they held it in trust for the nation.

Lock-outs and strikes having been abolished by law, labor in Fascist Italy has become definitely the "first charge on industry."

A prominent industrialist recently visited Mussolini and pleaded the impossibility of carrying on "business as usual" unless the present severe financial restrictions were removed or mitigated. Mussolini replied:

"Six hundred thousand Italians gave their lives for their country, let 60,000 industrialists now make sacrifices for the national economy."

Capitalist Tendencies
So-called "feudal" tendencies of capitalists are henceforth to be restrained and their duties are laid down as follows:

Service for the community;
Full co-operation with workers on a footing of legal equality;
Recognition of the principle that each business is no longer the exclusive concern of stock-holders, and supervision of industries by workers' corporations.

Under the new Parliamentary regime of government by producers, workers will exercise a large measure of control, through their political representatives, over national economy.

Too many churches cannot be built in Decatur, too many people cannot attend church. You will usually notice that church goes down one of two things, sometimes both, they build character, or they build cities. Decatur needs both.

Another change in newspaper interests in the state of Alabama was announced today, the sale of the Thompson interests in the Birmingham Age-Herald to E. D. DeWitt, formerly general manager of the New York Herald. The Age-Herald improved greatly under the drive of Mr. Thompson and had become recognized as a factor in the political and civic life of the state. Mr. Thompson is admired over the state for his consistency in hammering upon projects in which he has conviction of right. Any newspaper publisher would like to have as much said for him.

The Daily wishes Mr. DeWitt every success in the Birmingham field, he has wisely chosen one of the finest fields in the Southland from every standpoint.

GOLD RUSHES, DIAMOND MINES, GIVE US NORTH ALABAMA.

Gold rushes in Nevada, diamond rushes in Mississippi, oil rushes in Texas and Oklahoma, many fortunes are made, many fortunes are lost, many farces, many tragedies, for good old honest-to-goodness consistency in financial gain and an honorable livelihood, give us North Alabama and the Tennessee Valley.

There are not a whole lot of rich folks in the Tennessee Valley, throwing money here and there, buying Rolls-Royce automobiles and fine mansions up on the hillsides, away from the stir and the bustle of the "vulgar" city, not a great many of the Newly-Rich, but there are worlds of comfortable folks here in the Tennessee Valley, many of whom do not choose to change places with the Get-Rich-Quick-Wallington type.

WE HOPE THE BUILDING RACE DEFEATS THE MONTH OF MARCH.

While March has been very discouraging so far as weather is concerned, yet there is a race going on in the city. It isn't political, it isn't a foot race, nor a horse race, an automobile race, nor anything of that sort, it's a sure enough building race. Johnston street and Railroad city halls are hustling along trying to equal the number of days in March with building permits. That race is interesting and so far the city has come pretty near taking the lead.

City officials point out that there won't be much trouble winning if people will apply for permits before building is started and then state again that it is the duty of police officials to report building which is being done without a permit. We don't know what the penalty is for the non-payment, or non-application for building license, but we do hope that everybody will take advantage of the first opportunity to drop into the city hall and obtain building licenses for structures started in the month of March. This is one race we should like to see the city win hands down. With a little fair weather it's almost a sure shot that the city will come out in the fore and there's a chance for some more good will propaganda about the growth of the city of Decatur, "More homes and buildings built, than there are days in the month." That headline would cause folks to read and think about building and pretty soon bungalows will thrive where cabbage plants once flourished.

MUCH MONEY IS TO BE RAISED TO TAKE CARE OF GUARANTEE.

You all are familiar with the fact that the Minneapolis Millers, American Association Baseball team is in Decatur for spring training. You are all aware that the club is going to meet some of the best clubs in the nation in exhibition games played right in your front doors. And are you aware that the club was brought here that your city might obtain some valuable advertising, advertising your city as a city that is wide-awake, brought here that you might not have the mediocre, but the very best in the national sport, brought here upon the personal guarantee of some seven business men?

Oh! You didn't understand that last part before, you thought the Millers were coming here for an outing and that there was no cost attached, well why in the world should a baseball team ask money for coming into your city to train?

Wake up! Baseball is one of the highest paid arts in the world today, few men in other vocations draw the salaries of baseball stars, few cities ever have the chance to obtain a good league ball club as an advertising medium. Decatur has obtained a baseball club and a guarantee was necessary to get that club here. Now it's up to you to see that the venture is a financial success. Season tickets are on sale daily, and while the weather condition has a great deal to do with the slow sale, yet a great many more tickets should have been sold by now than have been sold according to the records of sellers.

As a matter of fact the baseball situation from a financial standpoint is deplorable at the present time. Whether that condition is going to improve is a matter for every individual to decide.

Members of the Decatur Kiwanis club, members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, heralded as civic leaders in our midst should come across and purchase season tickets to the full nine games, why? Because you are the civic leaders in this city, recognized as such, stand by your guns, see that your name is upheld.

Not only is this an appeal to the civic organizations, but an appeal to every citizen in this city, in this section who enjoys seeing Decatur and the Tennessee Valley obtain valuable advertising.

You have come across nobly in response to every other drive and you can't afford to turn your back on this proposition. This ball club in a few weeks will go back into the very areas from which the South is now drawing a great many of its industries, not in Minneapolis perhaps, but in the north and east and the story they tell of Decatur and its people is going to be very convincing. What is your opinion upon that point.

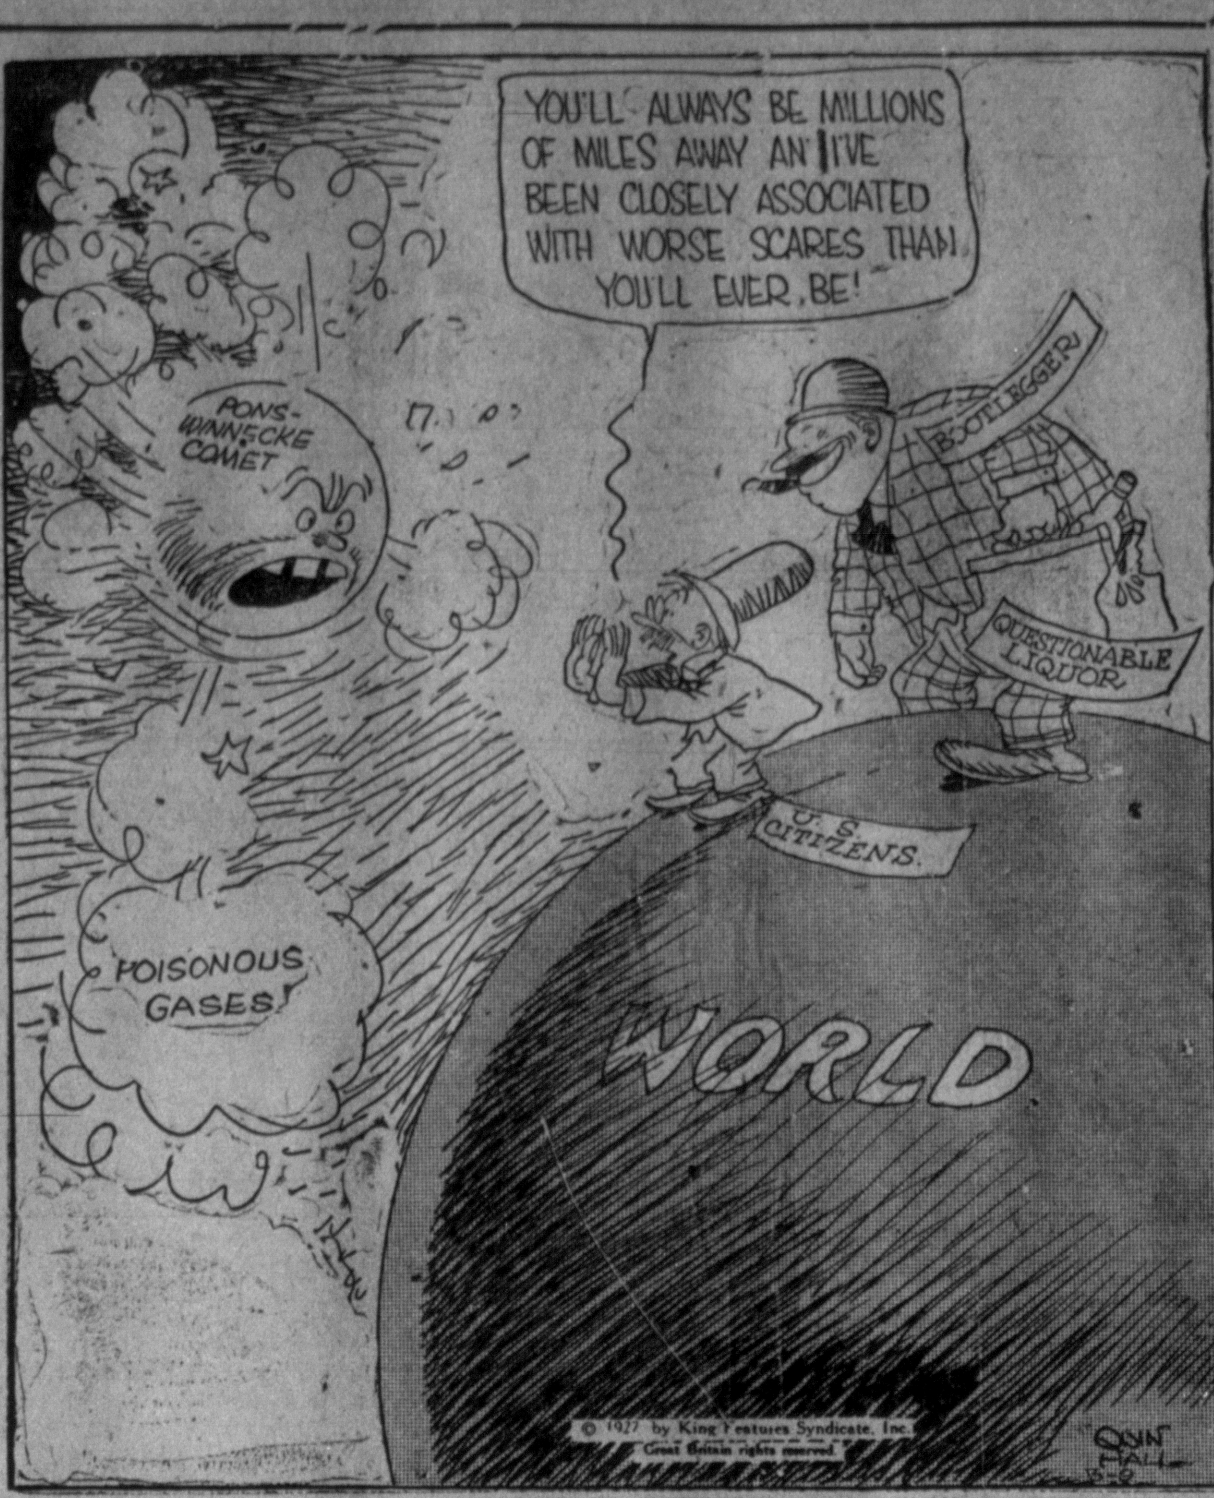

Come on, get behind this baseball movement, show the life for which Decatur is justly proud. Baseball fan, or not, come across for your city's good name for progressiveness.

It's still difficult to make people believe that anyone died from the effects of hard work, or a broken heart.

Advertising pays the man who makes his advertising pay him. In other words, an advertisement in the newspaper from a mercantile establishment should be followed with window displays, should be simultaneous with efforts on the part of clerks to push the products advertised, should be tied up with other forms of advertising, perhaps through circular letters, hand bills. Those things bring the maximum results. A newspaper can bring the buyer to the establishment, but there has been no way found yet for the newspaper to sell the product over the counter.

The sale of the Gadsden Times-News and the Gadsden Star to a Birmingham syndicate came as a surprise to the rest of the newspaper fraternity in the state. The two newspapers, good newspapers, were bought by newspaper men who see at Gadsden a point for the building of a wonderful newspaper product. Gadsden has supported both newspapers liberally, but Gadsden would not have supported liberally had not those newspapers brought returns in the form of dividends for advertising investment. To the new owners The Daily extends every good wish for success, hopes that the dreams of greater results for Gadsden through the newspaper medium may come true within a short while. The consolidation of the two papers will bring about an excellent product.

PRACTICALLY IMMUNE

THE VIEWS OF OTHERS

During the recess between the short session of the Alabama legislature, recently closed, and the time that body will resume its deliberations next summer a special committee is seeking to formulate appropriate revenue laws to raise the necessary money to carry on the business of the state in a manner that will permit better school advantages for the children of Alabama and many other things which are of vital importance. While this committee is engaged in this undertaking it would do well to study the revenue laws of the state of Louisiana, under which there is levied a severance tax of three per cent upon the value of all natural resources of the state which are removed, including lumber, sulphur, salt, oil, gas, furs, oysters, etc. This tax is sufficient, it is said, for Louisiana to spend, among other purposes, ten millions of dollars a year in the construction of fine highways throughout the state, and it is also said that besides carrying on a great program of development in its educational institutions the state expects in time to retire its indebtedness, largely because of the severance tax. If such a tax will produce benefits so remarkable in Louisiana, which is a state not blessed proportionately with Alabama in variety of quantity of natural resources, it should appear that a similar tax in this state not only would relieve the embarrassment caused by inability to provide funds for many necessary purposes but would place Alabama in a position to make the progressive strides which its citizenship should demand of the administration. The successful application of principles of taxation by sister states might be taken by the Alabama solons as the basis for wise deliberations in planning revenue laws to meet the requirements of the situation with which they themselves are faced.—Florence Times-News.

TO CURB ACTIVITIES OF PISTOL TOTERS

If the gunman can be successfully disarmed, crime waves can be restricted to the irreducible and comparatively unimportant minimum. So much is automatic. Accomplishing the disarmament is, of course, another thing altogether. But the National Crime Commission hopes to go far along the way by securing universal state adoption of prohibitory legislation that has been submitted to the various executives.

The cure, of course, is statutory. In spite of the prevalence of too many laws, it is obvious that the peace-abiding citizenship can only be protected in one of two ways. Either every man must be armed in self-defense or every man must be assured an unarmed community. Since the world has given up the first alternative as entirely too dangerous, it remains for it to seek to put the other into effect. The proposed legislation restricts weapon-bearing to persons legally empowered and requires a permit to buy as well as to carry. To the punishment for crimes committed or attempted when armed, it adds a modification of the Baumes law in accumulative penalties ranging from three years to life imprisonment, and makes the fact of processing arms prima facie evidence of intent, extended in the case of a vehicle containing arms to all persons occupying or using it at the time of the crime.

The provisions designed to make illegal acquisition of arms difficult include state registration of manufacturers and jobbers, detailed records of sales, prohibition of pawn-broking on arms, limitations of carrying permits to one year and safeguarding as far as possible permit insurance.

It goes without saying that adoption of the legislation by one state would be only partly curative. To make the law effective, it must be general. It is apparent, too, that as in the case of New York's drastic Sullivan law, even closing a tight lid on new purchases cannot safeguard against the many weapons already in possession of present or potential criminals, except in so far as penalties may be inflicted upon possession. Mere statutory enactment cannot completely stamp out crime. But here is an honest effort towards reducing crime conditions that cannot fail to be helpful even though impossible of proving entirely salutary, and it merits sympathetic if critical consideration.—Montgomery Times.

TO CLEAR THE AIR

A long suffering public will watch with hope the efforts of the newly created radio control board to eliminate the existing chaos in the broadcasting field. The hush that comes in over the crowded ether is at times indescribable. Turning the dial, a beautiful voice is heard in song and just as it soars the raucous note of a saxophone breaks in, mixed with market reports, weather forecasts and a band concert all on the same wavelength. If something is not done soon we know at least one radio fan whose future address is likely to be the state hospital for the mentally collapsed.—Tri Cities Daily.

"MOTHER JOB" IS BEST, BUT ALSO HARDEST

Several Simple Tests May Be Applied Frequently to Determine Progress Made by Growing Infants.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

EVERY few days I meet a young mother. Her eyes just sparkle and shine when she tells about the new-born baby. I saw such a mother a few days ago, and she was so enthusiastic about her youngster that everybody who heard her talk absorbed her enthusiasm.

I have often said that the mother job is the hardest job in the world. I believe this to be a fact. But if it is a hard job, it is the most satisfactory job in the world. To watch the growth, physical and mental, of a little baby is most fascinating. How are you to know that your baby is progressing properly? You are so wrapped up in its welfare that you are willing to make any sacrifices for its good, but it is natural for every mother to wonder whether her baby is progressing as it should.

Clearance of the skin, brightness of the eyes, firmness of the flesh, and the general plumpness of the child, are very dependable signs that it is progressing as it should. But it isn't enough, is it, to depend upon what your eyes tell you? You would like to have some definite proof that everything is as it should be.

There is a sure way to know. The increasing weight of the child is an almost infallible sign of its satisfactory development. A home where the baby is, is not a complete home unless there is to be found there an accurate pair of scales. You can't weigh a tiny baby with a pair of stilldials. You may weigh an adult on the grain scales, but for a growing baby you have to have a special outfit.

It might seem like a foolish expenditure of money to buy such a pair of scales. Perhaps it may not be necessary to buy them. Your neighbor may have a pair, and she will gladly lend them to you because she will recall how much pleasure she took in weighing her baby. I know how good mothers are. They are always glad to help another mother in every possible way. I recall a baby carriage which is stored in a part of our store. The fact is, it is out of storage more than it is in storage. During the past fifteen or eighteen years it has been a means of promoting the happiness of several mothers in adding to the comfort of a number of babies.

If you cannot afford to buy a pair of scales, find a pair somewhere in the neighborhood. To make sure they are all right take them to your grocer and let him test them for you. Then you know you are getting the correct weight of your charming offspring.

By ARTHUR BRISHANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For The Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brishane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

CONGRESS is dead; died saying "I object," leaving important work unfinished and the people convinced that the senate rules never changing. It should be made clear that the senate is part of the people's machinery, and that the people are not a small prerogative.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE will not bring the senate back to life with any special session and everybody will say "Much oblige." Money not appropriated and absolutely needed can easily be borrowed by Secretary Mellon, who understands such transactions.

The "right" of senators to talk important business to death is playing the fool, not statesmanship, and General Daves should be encouraged in his plan to put an end to it.

IN the latest and greatest African diamond rush 25,000 men and women on foot, automobile and flying machines not allowed, dash into a new diamond field to stake out claims. The first arrivals will be trained athletes hired to run for others, but the race is not always to the swift. Some woman, arriving late, may find the best spot. Let's hope she will.

A MORE important rush for wealth never ceasing, always productive, is the steady march of science. German and French scientists plan to produce electrical power the use of tropical sea water, at one-tenth the present cost. That discovery may be worth a thousand times as much as all the diamonds fields in the world.

EQUALLY important is the discovery that makes possible the transmission of electric power to a distance of 1,000 miles. The present limit is 100 miles. No one can estimate the value of that discovery or its effect among many industries, especially steel.

With power from a waterfall carried economically to raw material a thousand miles away, beds of iron ore can be made into steel by the new electric process, anywhere within a thousand miles of cheap water power.

The Pacific Coast may go head of Pennsylvania and Indiana in steel manufacture.

THIS country is really getting into big business. Seven different concerns are in the Billion-dollar class. And for some a billion is the unit. The American Telegraph and Telephone company has assets above three billions. In 1926 that one company spent $317,000,000 improving and extending its plants, a sum greater than the total capitalization of many railroads and of a majority of industrial enterprises.

Before long the "billion" will take place of the "million" in familiar conversation. And Wall street will say, "The first billion is the hardest to get."

VILLATA, greatest living bull fighter, sails for Spain today, after 24 hours in this country. He feels sorry for a nation with no bull ring and wants us to know that he is the holder of "The Golden Ear."

To Spanish bull fight "fans" that is as important as the "pennant" to our baseball enthusiasts.

It is the ear of a bull reproduced in solid gold, given to the greatest bull killer. Villata has killed 500 bulls and will kill about 70 a year until some bull kills him.

HE has one advantage, you could write an opera about a bull fighter you couldn't possibly write one about Babe Ruth. In the veins of that bull fighter there probably runs some of the blood of men that fought bulls on the Island of Crete 5,000 years ago. And in Babe Ruth's veins there is Nordic blood that hurled sharp stones, 100,000 years ago.

"THE wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the Sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh and whither it goeth."

The Island of Madagascar is the latest part of the earth to be stricken by a great mysterious wind. It wrecked the town and harbor of Tamatave, doing $4,000,000 damages, destroyed vessels and terrified the inhabitants.

The Empress Zita, whose husband was Austrian Emperor for a short time, noifies Hungarian authorities that she is sending the heart of her late husband to be buried with other kings of Hungary. When his body was buried, the heart was taken out and preserved. It seems strange to ship your husband's heart across country, but the mother of such a family as the Empress Zita has produced, has a right to carry out her ideas.

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
SAN FRANCISCO.—Visitors to San Francisco are intrigued among other things, by the animated antiques called cable cars. Other American cities have cable cars, perhaps, but the San Francisco cable cars are of a type long since forgotten or rotting in the graveyard of a modern carban.

Some of the cars, it is said, are more than 50 years old. There is no doubt they look their age. Clicking along in their venerable way, the cable cars run up hills in the downtown district that electric cars cannot pull over. And there are enough hills in the downtown district to make it worthwhile for a separate company to own and operate the cable system.

The running cable underneath the pavement spells both power and a brake. Pulling a long, awkward lever, the motorman connects his car with the cable both to climb and to go down the steep city hills.

Dissatisfied with the surname, "Schmidt," an Oakland man recently asked permission of Judge St. Sure here to take instead the name of his favorite horse.

The horse, "Raswan," is a pure Arabian, its owner said, and the sole survivor of a paddock of thoroughfares "murdered" by the Russian bolsheviks in their ignorance of equine values. Judge St. Sure assented, and Carl Reinhard Raswan walked out the door Carl Reinhard Schmidt had entered.

To keep their fathers in lustrous sheens, birds have to take a bath. Therefore, bird lovers at the University of California are constructing and installing over 300 "tubs" at various points on the campus.

The crews of the ferryboats plying on San Francisco bay are largely of Scandinavian descent, a survey revealed.

Despite such rival attractions as radio, movies and dancing, high school students in Oakland are steadily reading more books, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Madison, school librarian, who has found that 11,423 students read, on an average, nearly twenty-three books a year.

San Francisco's Chinatown is now settling down to another period of oriental indifference after letting go emotionally for celebration of Chinese New Year's and of Fa Dang Wui, or "Feast of the Lanterns."

Believing a holiday is a holiday no matter what the occasion Chinese youngsters trooped hilariously downtown from Chinatown to celebrate with confetti and streamers the conventional and orthodox New Year's, January 1. Then, more than a month later, they celebrated the Chinese New Year's, a period of good-will and of debt settlements.

Reading for tonight: Psalm 72:9. World conquest prophesied "He shall have dominion from sea to sea."

The Jews of old looked for a political Messiah, whose splendors would outshine those of the kings of Egypt and Assyria. His dominion, they supposed, would be maintained by earthly means, and its rewards would be material.

How different was the Anointed of the Lord when He came! His kingdom, He announced, was not of this world—not characterized by pomp and circumstance, not sustained by bounteous largess to the king's courtiers. Its nature, its aims, its rewards were spiritual.

What then shall we say of this Psalm? Simply that, as F. W. Robertson once declared, the prophecies of God, the always fulfilled are never fulfilled as men expect. For they expect a literal fulfillment, whereas the one given is always spiritual. What then is the realization of this prediction? Simply this—that the Kingdom of Christ is indeed world-wide. From sea to sea extends His dominion over the hearts of men.

LUNCHEON FOR OUT-OF-TOWN VISITOR.

The home of Mrs. Will Wyker on Canal street was the setting for a beautiful luncheon on Tuesday when Mrs. Wyker honored Mrs. Neill Bass, of Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Bass is here visiting her aunt, Mrs. T. A. Bowles. Spring flowers including masses of jonquils added attractiveness to the home.

Luncheon tables set for four were grouped in the living room and each was centered with a crystal vase filled with jonquils, the bases of which were tied with yellow and white mints. The color tulle. The favors at each place were red baskets lined with yellow and containing yellow and white mints. The color was also accentuated in the place cards and in the delicious two course menu that was served.

Mrs. Wyker's guests were members of the Tuesday Club, Mrs. H. H. May, Mrs. H. D. Greer, Mrs. Ponsonby Kyle, Mrs. Russell Greene, Mrs. Robert R. Banks and supplementary guests, Mrs. Bass, Mrs. M. A. Cortner, of Nashville, Mrs. R. G. Cortner, Mrs. F. D. Peobles, Mrs. S. W. Irwin, Mrs. F. S. Hunt, Mrs. E. M. Chenaunt, Mrs. John D. Wyker and Mrs. Georgia Miller, Mrs. E. R. Sumpter and Mrs. T. A. Bowles. The latter four named were luncheon guests but the former stayed for a number of interesting games of bridge at which Mrs. Ponsonby Kyle made high score among the club members and received the club souvenir, a pair of silk hose, Mrs. S. W. Irwin was presented the guest souvenir, handmade handkerchiefs and a dainty souvenir was given the guest of honor.

Crippled Cupid

IT ALL came about this way. At the party that evening she looked so radiantly lovely that many of the guests commented on the fact. One man in particular was exceedingly lavish in his compliments and of course she smiled sweetly at him and gave him almost as many of her dances as her sweetheart. But he was furious, but he had the good grace not to evince a suspicion of it until he had taken her home. And when they were alone the darts began to fly.

He scornfully accused her of being a flirt and she indignantly charged him with being jealous. Words between them became very bitter until she burst into tears and both of them were very unhappy. The poor little God of Love was terribly mistreated in all this fray. All battered and bruised he painfully limped away. But he is a sturdy little fellow and is only temporarily disabled. He knows it was a lovers' quarrel which will be patched up before the lovely one's tears are quite dry.

Mrs. Fred Pruett is spending this week with Mrs. Leroy McEntire and she will leave the latter part of the week to make her home in Atmore, Ala. Since coming here Mrs. Pruett has endeared herself to many friends who will regret to learn that she is going to leave.

Mrs. Julian Schwarz, of New York City arrived Wednesday morning to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamilton and Mrs. J. O. Brasswell of Florence spent the week-end with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. W. H. Thompson is in Clanton, Ala., called there by the serious illness of Mrs. L. C. Reynolds who is suffering a severe attack of pneumonia.

S. H. Malone returned Tuesday from a business visit to Birmingham.

Miss Jacklyn Smiley was operated on Tuesday night at the Benevolent Hospital for the removal of her appendix and is reported resting well.

Mrs. T. C. Almon spent Monday in Birmingham.

Carl Thomas, of New Orleans, La., will arrive Saturday for a visit to his brother, Rutledge Thomas.

Mrs. B. T. Howell is very sick at her home on Grant street suffering an attack of flu.

Little Miss Martha Frances Kilgore is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. O. Brasswell in Florence.

Mrs. W. A. Coppage was taken to the Benevolent Hospital on Wednesday morning for treatment.

Mrs. Leona Rains Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Leona Rains, wife of W. A. Rains, died Wednesday morning at seven o'clock at the local hospital. The body was removed to Brown's parlors and prepared for burial and then conveyed to Albertville.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon and interment will be made in the cemetery at Albertville. Mrs. Rains is survived by her husband and five children. She was brought to the hospital here last night.

PARIS STYLE HINTS

PARIS.—Undies, like everything else in woman's world, are definitely moving forward again in style this spring in Paris. The "luzzy" type in crepe de chine in softest green, blue and flesh tones, which swept cambric, muslin and other cotton and linen undie fabrics out of fashionable wardrobes a few years ago, is still the only smart thing to wear. But it too, is receiving further improvement. The Paris dressmakers are trying to make women's lingerie something more professional. Paul Carot started the ball rolling, designing underwear that resembles dresses themselves in look and quality. Stitching in almost invisible. The "fancy-work" look about it has been done away with, and the feminine touch is given by floating panels of chiffon. Lace is inserted as well and embroideries are being used, even metal ones and there are ruffles and founces and pleats.

In reality, these new lingerie creations are "under-dresses" and must have their line and silhouette as well as the frock itself. One begins to foresee mennequins showing off everything they wear right out in the open salons of the large dressmaking-shops, for otherwise, how will Madame know what to select?

Printed crepe de chine evening dresses have their undergarments to match and they are even to be seen in black and navy-blue.

Gold lace and even silver lace is used lavishly for combinations for evening wear. Finer laces unite with delicate chiffons for dancing "scanties."

Claims Mystery Man as Mate

Mrs. Henry Lange, of Detroit, told Congressmen that the Howard Francis Noble, of Erie, Pa., that she married in 1917, was none other than "Jerry Tarbot," the mystery man. Her testimony that he was in this country during the war was offered to defeat a move to pension him as a shell-shocked veteran. Tarbot listened, apparently puzzled by her statements.

Rain Is Handicapping Early Training of Millers

Kelley Willing To Turn Weather Man And To Serve Without Pay

Anything To Get Sunshine, Miller Cry; Corriden Suggests Want Ad Trial.

Michael Kelley, who gives hit and run signals and otherwise guides the destinies of the Minneapolis Millers, is willing to serve as weather observer, serving without pay, if he is permitted to say so regarding the activities of the elements.

In fact, weather observation has been one of the principal tasks of Mike since he arrived here last Saturday. Rain and baseball mix about as well as alcohol and gasoline, meaning not at all. If the rain continues at the present rate, Mike may be forced to call upon his Irish vocabulary to describe his exact opinion of the brand of weather which has greeted the Millers here.

Sunshine in great, eye-straining probe, is described as needed by the diamond crew. In the vernacular of the famed Roy Octavius Cohen, Sunshine is what they want "nothing else but."

Having perused the edifying columns of The Decatur Daily since his arrival here and discovering from these justly famous columns that The Daily want ads find anything, Red Corriden, sorrel-topped coach of the Millers, is considering advertising for a bit of sunshine.

"Is there anything your fellows want done for them, or is there anything more the local committee can do for you?" inquired a native of the visitors' coach yesterday.

"Yes," replied Red, smilingly, "bring us some sunshine."

"Give us sunshine and the world is ours," appears to be the motto of the Millers at present.

The moon may shine on the Wash this year, but the particular Moon who won 24 and lost nine games for Des Moines last season, is not likely to shine in a Miller uniform in 1927.

From Gage, Oklahoma, there arrived a telegram in the local camp. The telegram was signed by Leo Moon and addressed to Mike Kelley. It advised the latter the former needed such and such for his mound services. From Decatur, Alabama, to Gage, Oklahoma, there were a telegram from Mike Kelley to Leo Moon, in which the man with the planetary cognomen was advised the latter had completely mis-gauged the size of the Miller pocketbook and for Mister Moon to continue to stay in the west.

"I kept the fellow in Des Moines two years, letting him get experience and now just look—" bewailed Kelley who appeared quite put out about it all, but careful consideration of his reply leaves no conclusion except that he intends to worry along with his all-star pitching crew already under contract.

Two Irishmen are better acquainted now than they were were 24 hours ago. Last night

Mayor James A. Nelson and Manager Kelley had a short fan fest in the lobby of the Lyons hotel, Mayor Nelson expressing the hope to the visitors that their stay here would be both profitable and enjoyable and pledging the help of citizens and the municipality to bring about both eventualities.

Eighteen will be taken in the party of Millers to Columbia, Tenn., Sunday for the Sabbath clash with the Nashville Vols. The Miller morale, at present, plan to take 15 diamond performers, Manager Kelley, Coach Corriden and Trainer Beman.

The arrival of Eddie Kenna is anticipated here with no little interest. This former Nashville Vol back-stopper, was sold to the Millers at the end of last season for $10,000, said to be the highest price ever paid by the American Association for a player from a league of lower ranking.

Does the hero who jumps from school league competition to fast professional company and makes good exist in fact as well as fiction? Mike Kelley intends to find out.

Dropping off a Chicago train yesterday was Ed Dennis, youthful left-hander from Mt. Carmel school Chicago, anxious to impress the chieftain with what he has learned about successful south-paw slugging. Kelley announced he would give the youngster a thorough inspection.

Assessing he is feeling fit and has entirely recovered from tonsillitis and what-not which bothered him last year and impaired his usefulness, Ernie Kreuger reached port also from the Windy City. Kreuger declares his health is good and he is ready to match his catching talent against Kenna, the venerable Hank Gowdy or whoever else might happen to have the notion he would like to catch for the Millers this year.

The showers this morning pretty well kept the players indoors throughout the morning. Kelley was hopeful of two things for the afternoon—that the sky's would clear and that he might find a place entirely underwater wherein he might let his cohorts limber up their muscles.

MONTEVALLO, Ala., March 9. —(AP)—Events including basket ball, reading and declamation contests, piano, violin and voice competition, and exhibits in home economics and art will engage the attention of representatives of more than 150 Alabama high schools at the fifth annual inter-high school meet at Alabama College here March 10-12.

In 1926, approximately 150 high schools sent representatives to the competition and the meet this year is expected to be considerably larger, according to W. J. Kennerly, chairman of the arrangement committee.

High schools which already have entered are: Music—Hartselle, Ozark, Tusculum and Anniston; Expression—Downing Industrial School, Brewton, Tusculum, Mor-

VETERANS CLASH IN TWIN AFFAIR

Decatur Goes On Boards First; Albany Next

"Pesty" Johnson and his team of ex-high stars, clash tonight with local scholastics in a twin fracas at the Albany Hi gymnasium at 7:30 o'clock. Decatur Hi takes the floor in the first encounter, while Albany Hi will battle in the final tilt against the cunning of the veterans.

The vets had little trouble in disposing of the high squad on last Monday night, taking the two teams in tow, in a combination affair, 40-23, in what might be termed a one-sided victory.

Decatur, city scholastic champs, will attempt to come back against the veterans tonight, but will have to develop considerable speed in attack to halt the rushes of Norman at center. They will likewise encounter considerable difficulty in getting past Leopold, vet guard who distinguished himself in the last game.

Albany will have a problem to stop Johnson, provided that lad saves himself for the final game. The proceeds of the games will go toward the high school athletic funds.

What Does Kelley Think? Answer Is—

Since the arrival of the Minneapolis Millers here, the query "What does Kelley think?" has applied to baseball, weather, the league of nations and various and sundry other subjects. For those who are interested, here is a typical Irish quip, accredited to Mr. Kelley's comment on the weather.

"The weather," the Irish leader avers profoundly, "is a subject of which more is said and less done than anything I know of." So, that's that.

ATLANTA BATTLES OVER 'BLUE LAWS'

City Divides In A Fight Over Movie Use on Sunday

By International News Service ATLANTA—Atlanta is in the midst of a row between church people and civic leaders over the question of Sunday movies.

Civic leaders, including some of the biggest business men in town, take that stand that many visitors to Atlanta find it a dull place Sundays, with nothing to do except go to church.

The sponsors of the movement to open theatres on Sundays claim that due to the scarcity of means of recreation on the Sabbath, many people are indulging in "immoral conduct" and finding other means of diversion less desirable than the movies.

Churches and Sunday school organizations came right back and denounced the move to "commercialize the Lord's day," and one resolution adopted by a Sunday school class as Wesley Memorial Hospital declared Sunday movies "would pervert the morals of the young people of Atlanta."

Heads of many Parent-Teacher Associations are aligned with the campaign to have Sunday movies, pointing out it is a "step for the good of the morals of people." Mrs. M. D. Farnham, leader of the campaign, made the following statement:

"Naturally we expected some opposition from certain bodies, but what astounded us was the tremendous response from people who are in accord with our viewpoint—from mothers and fathers of children who believe with us that the present inadequacy of recreational centers in Atlanta on Sunday tends to throw young people into bad influences and deteriorating practices."

The W. C. T. U., of the state and all the ministers of the Methodist and Baptist churches are lined up in opposition to the plan to have movies on Sundays.

RUSSIA HOARDING FOOD FOR A WAR

Soviet Fears That A Polish War Will Result Soon

By International News Service MOSCOW—Popular alarm at the prospect of war with Poland in the spring is mounting. Food hoarding has begun on a large scale.

It began, however, when Premier Rykoff, Commissar of War Voroshiloff, and Rukharin, member of the political bureau, made speeches warning the country that war was imminent. They referred to Lenin's prediction that the "bourgeois" countries would sooner or later attack the Soviet Union. They declared their belief that Poland was preparing such an attack appeal to the Soviet population to organize the rear, and said the whole country must "mobilize psychologically" for the coming war.

They carefully avoided fixing a precise date, but their hearers immediately jumped to the conclusion that the war was surely coming in the spring, and with every day that brings the country nearer to the first thaw, the feeling of anxiety grows.

In the province of Moscow many village cooperative stores have sold out several times over in record time their entire stocks. Lines of peasants besieged the shops, clamoring for salt, soap, sugar, flour and cloth.

Salt is the chief article hoarded. Many peasant and workmen have bought 100-pound bags of salt, sufficient to last their families a year or more.

From the towns of Kovrov, Likhino and Forilevsk came reports that the cooperative stores have sold two months supplies of commodities in less than four days. The private merchants are said to have raised their prices fifty percent after the cooperatives had sold out.
